THE FIREBRAND OF THE REVO. LUTION.

I H IT had not been for a woman the French Revolution might never have taken place. It was October 5, 1789. Outside the palace of Versailles a mob of women from Paris cried for bread and the head of "the Austrian woman," Marie Antoinette. She and Louis XVI looked from the windows, and Marie asked; "Why don't they cat

The women had dragged cannon from Paris, which they could not fire because the rain had wet their powder. Versailles was protected by the royal bodyguard and a regiment of Flemings. The local post of the Garde Nationale was in sympathy with the women and would have helped them, but they had no cartridges.

At this point enters Theroigne de Mericourt, already a heroine of republican Paris, and a vampire who had laid waste many hearts. She appeared before Versailles in a red silk dress, a big hat with a feather, and a sabre at her belt. She went among the women and picked willing spirits to attack the Flemings. Their "attack" was made with kisses-a kiss for a cartridge, Soon the Garde Nationale fired on the bodyguard. The next day Versailles was stormed. Marie escaped in her Back in Parls, Theroigne was acciaimed a queen of the Revolution. On August 10, 1792, she led in the attack on the Tulleries and the massacre of Swiss guard. The sinister Robespierre, revolutionary leader, was said to have been one of her intimutes. But before he came to his greatest power suspicion pointed to Pherologie in a plot to assussinate Murie. She was kidnaped and enried to Austria in a carriage, and there pur on trial for her life. She succeeded in reaching Leopold II and "vampsal" her way to freedom.

Then came the tremendous events of 1793. Robespierre rose to be the first man of the state. But Theroigne announced that she had "withdrawn her confidence" from him and joined his enemics. Her opposition was so band of women to take his revenge. Tuileries, the scene of her glory in 1702. This time she did not wear her sabre. The women overpowered Theroigne, turned her petticents over her bend and spanked her before the Parisian crowd.

withstood such ignominy. The sly Robespierre had struck Theroigne a death blow. Paris laughed, her great deeds were forgotten and only her shame known. She lost all political power over night and not long afterward her mind as well.

I pray not that men tremble at my power of place and lordly away; I only pray for simple grace to look my neighbor in the face full honestly from day to day.

WOMAN KILLS POLE

CAT WITH HANDS

We have often heard and seen the wrath of a woman turned on a mere man with quite disastrous results (to | 4 the man) but the other day was the . first time we ever heard of the wrath & of a woman venting its spleen on a . real, healthy, live pole cat. J. F & . Hart, pumper for the Santa Fe rail-laces. One day this week a pole o cat got mixed up with a busen of & chickens belonging to a well anowe & maisur of fancy Rhode Island Red . fowls living west of Carlsbad, and & the result was about twenty fine chickens killed. This was just cause to stir the wrath of almost any one; & so the lady set out to find Mr. Pole & Cut and give him his just deserts. 4 strenuous that Robespierre hired a She found him all right but he made & his get-away and ran under the nonse | & & & They intercepted Thereigne before the with the lady in full pursuit. Instead of stopping when she came to the ********* house as the pole cat promisiv & thought she would do, she went down . . on her hands and knees and crawling . a short distance, caught the pole cut & No human reputation could have by the tail and pulled him out, then & beat him into unconsciousness upon . the ground with the aid of no weapon, holding him by the tail while she pounded him on the ground. Mr. Pole Cat fought back the only way in his power, but the only damage he did was to cause the lady to have a sore eye .- Carlsbad Current.

CHARACTER.

It is character that counts in a nation as in a man. It is a good thing to have a clean, fine intellectual development in a nation to produce orators, artists, successful business men; but it is an infinitely greater thing to have these solid qualities which we group together under the name of character-sobriety, steadfastness, the sense of obligation toward one's A good way to serve a small neighbor and one's God, hard comunt of meat for a good sized fam- mon sense, and combined with it, the gift of generous enthusiasm toward vegetables; the whatever is right. These are qualiflavor of the ties which go to make up true nationmeat seasons the al greatness.-Roosevelt.
